

Roxane Tussiwand is a young faculty, holding since end 2014 a Swiss National Foundation Professorship at the University of Basel. After obtaining her BS degree from the University of Milan, she was awarded a competitive fellowship for an international PhD program at the University Vita e Salute, San Raffaele, which brought her to the Institute for Research in Biomedicine in Bellinzona, Switzerland. After a first postdoctoral experience in A. Rolink's laboratory at the University of Basel, she decided to move to the United States and join Kenneth Murphy's group at the Washington

University in St Louis for a second postdoc.